Match the descriptions below with the correct photos and try to name the breed.

1) I am the heaviest hound, and can weigh up to 110 pounds. Although I am a very big dog, I have a very sweet personality. I have used my famous sense of smell to help people for over 1,000 years. Originally, I was used as a hunting dog. Now I help police and rescue workers by tracking criminals, finding illegal drugs and locating people who are lost or trapped. My nose is so amazing that I can follow the scent of a person who walked by several days ago. Some people call me a "nose with feet."

2) Before there were fire engines, horse drawn fire carts were used to get water to a burning building. Dogs like me ran in front of the fire carts to clear the way for the horses and firefighters. They also helped search for people trapped in burning buildings. I am still loved by firefighters and can often be found today living with them in their firehouse. My puppies are born with completely white fur. As they grow, their coat begins to change, and they develop black or liver colored spots all over. I starred in a Disney movie with 100 other dogs just like me. What kind of dog am I?

3) The first dogs like me came from Mexico. I am the smallest breed of dog in the world. I often weigh less than 6 pounds, which is smaller than most cats! Although I am tiny, I am very brave and full of self confidence. People say I have the attitude of a big dog! I will bark like crazy to let my owner know when a stranger is around. I am popular with movie and TV stars. Brittney Spears and Paris Hilton can often be seen carrying their little dogs around, and American Idol judge Paula Abdul has a dog like me named Tulip. What kind of dog am I?
